By W. BEAVER-JONES

A PROMINENT GROCERY STORE manager is being welcomed into Kelowna business circles. He's Walter Payne, newly-appointed manager of the Canada Safeway store in the Orchard City.

Mr. Payne came here from Langley where he held the same post for the well-known chain store. He succeeds William Mosdell, who in turn has gone to Lagnley to fill the position vacated by Mr. Payne. Mr. Payne has been with Safeway for 26 years and prior to coming to Kelowna was stationed at Mission, New Westminster and Vancouver. Married, he has a daughter 18, presently attending grade XIII in Kelowna high school.

"It's the best place I've been in," he remarked referring to being transferred to Kelowna. "I hope to retire here."

Incidentally the threatened strike of retail clerks in the local Safeway store has been settled. Understand the employees took another vote, and they overwhelmingly agreed to the wage increase offered by the company.

A WELL-KNOWN MAN in the Okanagan Valley will shortly be taking off for the southern climate. Frank A. Scott, vice-president of sales of Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd., has been moved up to the key sales position of assistant vice-president newspaper and printing paper sales with headquarters in San Francisco. He will be succeeded by Orval C. Cook. Both men were born and educated in Canada and have been associated with Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. for many years. Mr. Cook is a native of Winnipeg. He joined the company in 1927 and was appointed general sales manager in 1956. Mr. Scott started with Crown as an office boy in 1933. Both Mr. Cook and Mr. Scott have made many friends in Kelowna. Best of luck Frank. Hope to see you back in the Okanagan during the course of your frequent business trips.

WONDER WHY A LOCAL high school has seen fit to get its school annual printed and published in Kansas City? Doesn't seem fair when there are at least four job printing shops in Kelowna, coupled with the fact that Kelowna business men support the annual through the medium of advertising. By doing business at home, we're building Kelowna payrolls. It's the second year in succession that the Americans have published the "????? ???".

ALL'S QUIET ON the Finty Front. No news is good news but . . .

FOUR VANCOUVER BUSINESSMEN dropped into the office yesterday to pay their respects. Among them was Ronald Howard, Vancouver lawyer, and city solicitor for the district of North Vancouver. Doing a little reminiscing, we recall when Mr. Howard was engaged by the hotelmen's association when a beer parlor plebiscite was held here around 49's or 50's. Ron chuckled when it was recalled the "wets" lost out by a 1.1-odd percentage, thus failing to get the 5 per cent majority. Also the fact that the "Victory Party" fell flat on its face. He agreed present liquor laws are more sensible. Mr. Howard is now prominent in YMCA work, being a member of the metropolitan board of governors. Accompanying him were George Bradley, also a member of the board of governors and president of Home Oil distributors; Ray Fairbairn, general secretary YMCA, and Cece Weakeley, another YMCA governor. They would like to see a YMCA branch established here. Might be the answer to the juvenile delinquency problem.

ANOTHER LOCAL BUSINESS, located in the south end of town, changed hands this week. Bob and Thelma Buchner sold their grocery and meat store to John and Margaret Sinclair. It'll be known as Sinclair's Grocery. The Sinclairs were married five years ago, and came here from Uranium City where they operated a similar type of business. Prior to that they lived in Prince Albert. Welcome to Kelowna, Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair. South Pandosy residents should show their neighborly hospitality by dropping in, even if it's just to say Hello.

LEAVES CIVIL SERVICE . . . Nick Matick, rural building inspector for the past ten years, has decided to go into private business. He submitted his resignation a month ago. It was effective Sept. 30. Understand he's gone into the insurance business. Meanwhile Allan Cushing, Vernon's provincial building inspector is pinch-hitting. New local appointment should be made in a week's time.

BUSINESSMEN ARE WITHOLDING comment on announced plans of $611,000,000 Peace River power project. W. C. Mainwaring, president of Peace River Power Development Company is quoted as saying first stage will cost $375,000,000, produce 805 kilowatts or more than 1,000,000 horsepower and first surge of energy should reach Vancouver by 1966. One local businessman thought Mainwaring was trying to beat the gun in view of proposed Columbia River power development. And what's more, he says, the provincial water rights branch has not approved PR's application.

SUFFERS ONLY SHOCK

Pilot Bales Out Of Airplane Going 1,200 Miles-An-Hour

STRANRAER, Scotland (Reuters)—A test pilot who baled out of a 1,200-mile-an-hour jet—and lived—was in a hospital here today suffering from "severe shock" but no other ill effects.

Said the wife of 39-year-old Johnny Squier: "I can hardly believe that he is in such good shape after such an ordeal. It is absolutely amazing."

Squier, who has not yet been questioned about the loss of the plane, disappeared in his experimental P-1 Lightning jet fighter Thursday off the Scottish coast. He walked ashore Friday at Garlieston, near here, dragging his rubber dinghy behind him.

MISSING 30 HOURS He had been missing for 30 hours while a full-scale air and sea search looked for him. Squier, chief test pilot for the makers of the supersonic plane, took off from the company field at Warton, in northwest England. Radar screens tracked him at 30,000 feet as he broke the sound barrier off the Isle of Man and pushed the swept-wing jet toward Mach 2 (twice the speed of sound). Suddenly, at 11:25 a. m., the screens went blank. The P-1 had disappeared.

RAF and United States Air Force planes joined in the day-and-night hunt. Ships in the Irish Sea kept a constant watch. "I'm the pilot of the plane that crashed yesterday," he gasped. "Will you please call the police?" Miss Donaldson rang the local police station and within minutes the news was flashed to the air ministry, the English Electric Company and to Squier's wife, Margaret.

Then Miss Donaldson called a doctor and brought the dazed pilot tea and hot-water bottles. She told reporters: "The doctor said he was quite pleased with him."

Early Start On Columbia Power Seen By McNaughton

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Province quotes Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission, saying there is a chance Columbia River development could start next year.

The newspaper asked Gen. McNaughton in a telephone interview whether there was any chance of a start on Columbia power plans next year.

Gen. McNaughton said, "I would think so."

The general declined to comment on whether the Columbia and Peace river hydro developments could be integrated.

Peace River Power Development Company said Thursday it will begin a $11,000,000 hydro development on the Peace river, 550 miles northeast of here, next spring if its plans are approved by the province.

Peace river plans call for the ultimate development of 8,000,000 horsepower. First power would be delivered here by 1968. Officials said Columbia Power would not be available for 10 years.

The development would be the largest hydro project in the world.

Compulsory Arbitration; No Strike No Lockout Policy Urged In Report

VICTORIA (CP)—The controversial Carrothers report on British Columbia civil servants recommends compulsory arbitration and a no strike, no lockout policy, it was indicated here Friday by a close associate of Dr. A. W. R. Carrothers of the University of B.C.

B.C. civil servants in convention here earlier passed a resolution calling for every necessary action, including the taking of a strike vote, to get the release of the report which has been kept under wraps by the government since January.

A brief strike of civil servants was staged last March because of the government's refusal to release the report.

Enos Is Waived But May Draw Old-Age Pension

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee Braves Friday placed Mickey Vernon and Enos Slaughter on waivers.

General manager John McHale said the club was asking waivers for the purpose of giving them their unconditional release.

Dr. Stuart M. Jamieson, professor of economics and political science at UBC, told delegates to the 16th annual B.C. Government Employees' Association meeting he felt his ideas about civil servant bargaining problems were close to those of Dr. Carrothers.

Dr. Carrothers conducted a royal commission into bargaining rights for civil servants.

COMPULSORY ARBITRATION

Dr. Jamieson, key speaker at the convention, said the answer . . . seems to me to be some kind of special legislation involving compulsory arbitration.

"Under this system both parties would be pledged before hand to refrain from strikes or lockouts, to submit their unresolved disputes to a third party and to accept the terms recommended by the arbitration agency for settling disputes."

VERNACULAR PINS THE POINT!

Rattler Point? Perish The Thought; Follow Frank; Say "Kalamalka!"

By IVY HAYDEN

Daily Courier Staff Writer

VERNON — Kalamalka Point, the mayor calls it.

But the euphemism dispelled a somewhat delightful nightmare. I've always called it Rattler-snake Point. And the fantasy surrounding the locality once sent shivers of pure horror up the smaller spines.

Once upon a time, we believed Rattlesnake Point seethed with reptiles. Not that any of us were ever threatened with banishment to the place, but the legends grew richly gruesome.

Goblins are fine for sissies . . . but this was real, in living color. We later learned that a resourceful nearby resident covered the point with pigs.

For some time, the story goes, the pigs wallowed shamelessly in snake corpses. The theory is that the rattler's fangs cannot penetrate porker's thick skin.

Whether the pigs became a problem was not recorded. They were reputed to have left the scene some years later.

Since the point has been named unofficially after legendary rattlesnakes, it was fortunate to have escaped the name of their alleged conquerors.

And I'll concede that Kalamalka is by far a more appealing and suitable designation.

And perhaps the initial urge to rebel a little can be appeased by the fact that down the valley, there's a mountain referred to as "Camel's Hump."

Another very old tale rumored that a nobleman who lived in the Coldstream before the turn of the century had a systematic method for Saturday night discipline. He'd ride into town, gallop his horse into the bar room in a local hotel. Next step in the routine was to poise his whip and his profile, and crack the former down the surface of the bar. He smashed all the glass thereon, but neatly.

Come Monday, he'd receive a bill from the management. Promptly, he'd reply with a cheque.

Then on Saturday, he'd ride into town . . . and so forth.

Speaking of Saturday night festivities, Vernon Lions Club are holding a pancake supper outdoors and tonight.

Sloppy weather forced cancellation last week, but today's clear skies promise ideal conditions. The event commences at 4 p.m. in the parking lot beside Woolworth's. Assisting will be Lion Ladies.

Also on the calendar today are home baking sales. One of them is being sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to the Yacht Club, and will get underway at 1:30 p.m. in Bennett's store. Something of a coincidence that meanwhile, at Shantz Insurance Agency, members of the Vernon Social Credit group also will be offering home baking for sale.

Hon. Hugh Shantz is MLA for the North Okanagan . . . Bennett needs no introduction, either.

Volunteers will be tagging in downtown Vernon today on behalf of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. Tuesday, the Vernon Branch of the CNIB will hold a residential blitz canvass.

Children watching a soft, snowy sky . . . a fairy godmother, a Mexican artist's impression of Christmas symbols . . . these are some of the motifs on cards being sold by the local United Nations Association.

The cards may be obtained from Mrs. George Hegler, Mrs. Leslie R. McLean or Miss Margaret Obana.

The designs were fashioned by leading artists from many nations, and in addition to Christmas messages, there are similar cards suitable for year-around use. Proceeds will supply milk and medicine and other requisites to underprivileged children throughout the world.

Fire Prevention Week begins October 4, "but every week must be fire prevention week," says Vernon Chief Fred Little. Official slogan for the nation-wide observance is "Don't Give Fire A Place To Start."

Ald. Charles McDowell recommends "constant vigilance, daily checks of wiring, volatile materials that are potential hazards."

Ald. McDowell is chairman of the city's fire committee.

Mayor F. P. Becker has proclaimed that fire prevention is "the responsibility of all citizens" and advises Vernonites to take cognizance of the fire hall's emergency number 115, and the location of the neighborhood alarm box.

Smith In A Huff At Sudsy Stuff

CHICAGO (AP)—Charlie Neal hit that fifth-inning home run into the lower left field stands Friday and:

A fan in the first row leaped up to try to catch the ball.

In so doing, he knocked over a paper cup of beer that had been standing on the rail in front of his seat.

The beverage poured down on Smith's head.

A group of nine members of Silver Star Chapter (Vernon) of the Order of De Molay, visited Kelowna recently.

They witnessed the conferring of the degree of Chevalier on Robert John Allen and Stephen Reid Albright by a team of the Kelowna Shrine Club, composed of Nobles Harold Truswell, Fred Russell, Jack Kelly, Bill Fray and George Johnson.

This degree, one of the highest and most coveted in the Order of De Molay, is awarded for outstanding and meritorious service to the order and to the community.

A delegation composed of members of Ogopogo Chapter and the Penitentiary Chapter of the Order of De Molay will arrive in Vernon October 10, to initiate and confer the degree of De Molay on 15 candidates. Early in November, members of the Provincial Grand Chapter will arrive from Vancouver to institute the Silver Star Chapter.

This ceremony will be open to the public. The date will be announced later, De Molay officials indicated.

The Vernon Branch, Canadian National Institute for the Blind, is in need of volunteers for their blitz campaign.

Their annual appeal for funds commenced today with a tag-along charge of tagging from 9 a.m. until 6 tonight, taggers still are need for the hours of 6 p.m. until nine.

Members of the Lions Club will be among those working this evening, but coincidence of the service club's pancake supper has somewhat depleted the number of available members.

In addition, the CNIB branch would be grateful for volunteer canvassers for their blitz campaign Tuesday.

Those willing to assist have been asked to contact Mrs. C. W. MacLeod or Carl Romer.

An inquest into the death of Mrs. Adeline Munk will be held Monday.

Mrs. Munk died last week following a traffic mishap on the Lumby Road.

Why Should Grads Not Wear The Old School Tie?

A Western Ontario newspaper recently commented editorially that "the old school tie, of course, is a symbol of snobbery." The newspaper coupled its remarks on the tie with a criticism of the method of entry into the British foreign service, complaining that the majority of candidates for the diplomatic service were recruited from Oxford and Cambridge.

This sort of criticism reflects the sub-conscious envy and feeling of inferiority Canadians often entertain toward anything British, particularly a British education, states The Brockville Recorder and Times. They betray their immaturity by waxing hot under the collar at the very mention of Britain, while the British, on the other hand, are too mature to lose any sleep over any such complexes of their Canadian cousins.

As for the old school tie it is something that a man can wear with pride as a reminder and a symbol of his old school, a place of learning that in Britain at least may have been turning out outstanding scholars and leaders for centuries. A man is entitled to feelings of pride in his old school and to some tangible evidence of his having been there. And in this regard pride should not be confused with snobbery.

It is a pity that more Canadian schools do not have uniforms for their students, uniforms so designed that both boy and girl would be proud to wear them. If the girls should feel that a uniform is not chic, associating it in their minds with the shapeless tunic of old, they should realize a uniform blouse and skirt can look as pleasingly feminine as anything in their personal wardrobes.

The sloppy appearance of many of our students, boys and girls alike, suggests that a uniform would improve their appearance considerably. Blazers for example would look better than leather jackets on the boys. And when they leave school—well why should they not wear the old school tie? This, probably will meet with violent disapproval by those who prefer to go tieless.

U.S. Gets Tough On Strikes

Huge monetary losses involved in strikes and the growing inability of labor and management to get together in many areas of industry has drawn the official ire of President Eisenhower, together with a hint that the government whip might be cracked much harder in an effort to maintain peace on the labor front.

Referring to the steel strike in the U.S., which became more than two and a half months old this week, the president declared he was "sick and tired" of the apparent impasse and, even more significant, "so are the American people." He did not blame any particular party but free collective bargaining, the logical recourse of free people in settling industrial disputes, has apparently broken down, he said.

This left a situation which was intolerable. The president would seem to have good grounds for his impatience. If it were only a few workers in one section of the economy involved, the story might be different, but this is the nation's leading industry, one which has gained a reputation as being an example for others in conducting labor negotiations. A strike here soon reaches out to affect other industries all over the continent as plant after plant closes and untold thousands are thrown out of work, homes are deprived of their incomes and the future takes on another degree of uncertainty.

It is those people not directly involved in the strike, but who suffer anyway, that possibly are entitled to a greater voice in the affairs of this one industry, and it would appear that the U.S. president is about to supply that voice.

The high cost of strikes was illustrated in British Columbia this summer during the two-week tieup in the fisheries industry. This was just a small incident as strikes go, but the publication "Facts on Fish" points out that salmon net fishermen lost at least $4,000,000 on the basis of expected runs. They gained a quarter cent on pinks and a half cent on chums. Annual average catch over the last six years has been 45 million pounds of pinks and 11 million pounds of chums. It will thus take the next 22 years' catches of these species at these increases to regain the strike losses.

Basic monthly wage for tendermen averages $380, with 15 days off each month, so the two-week strike cost each tenderman about $190. The settlement brought a $5 monthly increase over the pre-strike offer. So it will take 38 months with the $5 increase to recoup the $190 lost, the publication says. Tendermen average between four and five months' work a year on just salmon, so it will take eight to ten years at the new rate to regain earnings lost in the strike.

For shoreworkers earning from $1.47 to $1.67 an hour, it will take 147 weeks of employment of women and 167 for men to make up the income lost. For those who work in the salmon season only it means 12 years to regain their strike losses.

UNITED KINGDOM OPINION

Macmillan's Election Drive Is Making Impact On Public

By M. McINTYRE HOOD
Special London (Eng)
Correspondent
For The Daily Courier

LONDON — Prime Minister Macmillan's "whistle-stop" campaign of over 2000 miles is making a great impact on the public. It has been well organized.

A dozen times a day he has stopped at vital communication munits, most of them in marginal constituencies and has delivered telling speeches, winding up the day with a major effort in one of large cities. Audiences of from 4,000 to 8,000 have attended his evening rallies, and the enthusiasm has been encouraging to Mr. Macmillan.

Mr. Gaitskell has not been quite so fortunate. At his opening meeting in the Labor stronghold of Bristol, he had an audience of 2,000. On the same night, Mr. Macmillan drew a crowd of 7,000 at Manchester. The Labor leader had a bad night of it when he spoke in marginal constituencies in the outskirts of London and within the city.

One of his meetings, at Battersea was nearly wrecked by a group of about 20 Empire Loyalists. The microphone was broken by a youth who was hustled outside. There were constant interruptions as Mr. Gaitskell spoke. At a meeting in Wandsworth, the hall lights fused, and Mr. Gaitskell had to make a large part of his speech in darkness. At Chislewick, there was a constant hammering on the doors from disgruntled opponents who could not get in. Several men in the audience kept standing up, demanding the right to ask questions, which Mr. Gaitskell refused. At Baron's Court, there were more hecklers scoffing at the Socialist leader's statements.

Mr. Gaitskell kept his temper and dignity in spite of the gauntlets he had to run of jeers, cat-calls and booing, in four of the toughest marginal seats of the London boroughs.

A check up on the ages of candidates of the three parties in the general election supports the contention that the Socialist party is becoming an old man's party. The Socialists have 261 candidates who are over the age of 50, compared with 105 Conservatives and 47 Liberals in that age category. On the other hand, there are 52 Conservative candidates under 30, compared with 29 Socialists and 21 Liberals in that group. The survey of the other brackets shows the following figures:

Between 30 and 40: Conservatives, 142; Socialists, 149; Liberals, 70.

Between 40 and 50: Conservatives, 186; Socialists, 148; Liberals, 64.

Between 50 and 60: Conservatives, 56; Socialists, 166; Liberals, 40.

Between 60 and 70: Conservatives, 45; Socialists, 71; Liberals, 6.

Over 70 years of age: Conservatives, 4; Socialists, 24; Liberals, 1.

The oldest candidate in the election is David Logan, who at 87 is contesting the Scotland division of Liverpool. Next to him in age is Sir Winston Churchill, who at 85 is again a candidate in his constituency of Woodford in Essex. Youngest candidate is a age pensioners.

Liberal, 21-year-old Stephen Rubin, challenging Defence Minister Duncan Sandys at Streatham.

The Amalgamated Engineering Union and the Shipbuilding Union have made a large claim for more wages and shorter working hours. These unions have asked for a reduction in hours from 44 to 40 hours without loss of pay, and an all round increase of one pound a week in wages.

W. J. Carron, president of the AEU, in presenting the claim, said that this differed from all previous wage claims in that it was not based on the cost of living, but on the increased productivity and profits in the engineering industry since the end of the war.

In reply, Sir Kenneth Hague, president of the Employers' Federation said that if the demand were met it would increase labor costs by 24 per cent and would cost the industry an additional £120 million a year. He promised an answer to the demands in a few weeks' time.

These demands are the most substantial which have been made in the current round of wage increase requests. The outcome is being eagerly awaited by union leaders in other industries, as in the past negotiations in the engineering industry have frequently helped to set the pattern for wage increases elsewhere.

The electors are having difficulty in choosing between the statements made by the two main parties in the election. Here is a classic example. At his nomination meeting in Bromley, Prime Minister Macmillan said:

"The terrible division between rich and poor, one class and another, the deep cleavages and bitter feelings resulting from them — all of this has largely ceased."

On the same day, in the Socialist election manifesto, this appeared:

"The contrast between the extremes of wealth and poverty is sharper today than eight years ago. The business man, the speculator, the retired company director, has never had it so good. But it is not so good for the founder's sons, William J. Preston, at age 84, the business house may be sold.

"Operation Dust Control" Has Improved Whitehorse

By BILL RATHBUN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WHITEHORSE, Yukon (CP)—When Whitehorse got fed up with dust and mud underfoot there was action. Operation Dust Control was formed and street paving started.

Early in September the city turned out for the first street dance in its history, celebrating the completion of the first block of hardtop on the wide main street. Before winter gets a firm grip, work on 1 1/2 miles of streets will be completed at a cost of $380,000.

"We plan to complete up to three miles a year until we have all 10 miles of streets paved," said Mayor Gordon Cameron, 38, a native of Pictou, N.S., and a veteran of 18 years in the North.

PIONEER TOWN

Which came into being during the Klondike gold rush, when the White Pass and Yukon Railway reached the Yukon River from Skagway, Alaska. The city, with a population of 3,000 and another 2,000 in the immediate area, spreads along the banks of the river, at Mile 917 on the Alaska Highway.

Whitehorse still is the northern terminus of the 110-mile railway, but has lost its romance as a river-boat port. The last of the sternwheelers was pulled from the Yukon five years ago.

The city boasts several hotels, department stores, three banks, the Whitehorse Star, a weekly newspaper, a CBC radio station and even a closed-circuit television service.

Despite the current boom, there are only 600 taxpayers, causing Mayor Cameron and his four aldermen many headaches through an unbalanced tax structure.

"Our 1959 operating cost was $311,000," the mayor explained. "Taxes came to only $82,000. Territorial grants amounted to $91,000 and business licences came to $22,000. The balance must be made up through sundry services provided by the city."

INCORPORATED IN 1950

In 1951, a year after the city was incorporated, the territorial government was moved here from Dawson. With the switch to new prosperity, "Spending by the federal government and its civilian and service employees is the corner-stone of our economy," said Mr. Cameron. United Keno Hill Mines' trucking operations and the railway support other segments of the community.

Federal construction is vital. One block of the main thoroughfare is taken up by an administrative building and post office and there is also a $4,000,000 hospital. A large vocational school to teach trades to the natives is to be built, with 1961 set as the completion date.

Near the hospital is a new government - sponsored housing subdivision with 200 fully-serviced lots under development and another 800 in reserve. They sell for $1,000-$2,000 each.

London Boroughs Testing Ground

By M. McINTYRE HOOD
Special to The Daily Courier
(First of a series of articles)

LONDON—The boroughs in and around London can well be regarded as a real testing ground for the claims of public support made by the two major parties contesting the general election in Britain. Both sides are agreed that the crux of the national campaign lies in the marginal seats, those which in the 1955 general election elected their members with majorities under the 2,000 level.

In the London boroughs, there are 42 seats. In the 1955 election, they elected 28 Conservatives and 14 Socialists and that was the standing at dissolution. Of these constituencies, 11 can be placed in the marginal class. Six of these 11 are now held by Labor candidates, a few by very slim majorities. It would require but a very small swing of voters either way to change the representation in all of these 11 constituencies, and bitter battles are being waged in them.

SMALL MARGINS

Let us take, for instance, the two constituencies of Baron's Court and Wandsworth-Clapham. Both are Socialist seats. In the 1955 election, the majorities were 125 and 225 respectively. In both of these constituencies there is a straight fight between the Conservatives and Socialists. In each case, the Conservatives have a new man in the field opposing the former members. It looks like anybody's victory. But the key to the result is found in the fact that there have been great changes of population in these two areas, because of extensive building of homes and flats. This influx of population may well have changed the character of the riding, and given the Conservatives enough advantage to win these two seats.

One of the most interesting contests will be in the constituency of North Kensington, the district where race riots occurred last year.

Held by Socialist, George Rogers with a 1955 majority of 2,943, this is the scene of an interesting four-cornered fight. One of the candidates is Sir Oswald Mosley, who, with his Fascist background, is standing as a "Union Movement" candidate. Robert Bulbrook, defeated in 1955 in a straight contest, is again the Conservative candidate, and there is also a Liberal in the field. These factors make this quite an open seat, the result depending on which parties will suffer most from the Mosley and Liberal votes.

Mrs. Lena Jeger, who held the seat of Holborn and St. Pancras South by a marginal majority, has a tough fight on her hands. The electorate there has dropped by over 3,000 since 1955, because of large scale building of office buildings and institutions. This is a diverse constituency, including large areas of offices and other areas of crowded flats. One clue to the result may be found in the fact that in this year's municipal elections, the Conservatives won 10 seats in the council from Labor, and for the first time in many years took control of the council.

Color also comes into the election in Hampstead, where a West Indian David Pitt, is the Labor candidate against the Hon. George Brock, minister of housing. In 1955, however, Mr. Brock had the safe majority of 12,186 in a three-cornered contest such as is taking place again this year.

PIERCE FRAY

In a three-cornered fight with the Socialists and Liberals, Ernest Petheridge, Conservative, won the Battersea South seat by 679 votes in 1955. He again stands against the two other parties, both of whom have sent new candidates into the field. This will be a closely-contested seat, but Mr. Petheridge can take some encouragement from the fact that in the 1959 municipal elections, the Conservatives won three council seats from the Socialists. Personalities will play a large part in Lewisham North, where Niall McDermott is defending the seat which he won for Labor with an 1,100 majority in 1955, in a three-cornered contest in which the Empire Loyalists took part. He is now opposed by an exceptionally strong Conservative candidate in the person of Christopher Chataway, Britain's famous Olympic athlete and a member of the Lewisham council. The strong personal appeal of Mr. Chataway, who is conducting a vigorous doorstep campaign, may well cause a change in Lewisham North.

Proper Nutrition Pays Off In Maintaining Young Look

THE EXPERTS SAY
By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—An appeal to personal vanity is Mrs. Helen Morningstar's idea of a good way to the public in an interesting fashion.

She is director of the food section of the Canadian Association of Consumers, and she was one of four experts who took part in a panel discussion at a recent conference here for Canadian food editors.

"Nutrition is still a new science," said Mrs. Morningstar. "But because it helps to keep the sparkle in our eyes, to keep the crows' feet away and to keep our hair the color it was when we were children, it is worth a second look."

"If we thought that by practicing the principles of good nutrition we could become an Elizabeth Taylor or a Rock Hudson, we would study the articles avidly," she suggested.

HONEST ADVERTISING

Mrs. Morningstar rapped exaggerated advertising claims, and suggested that products be marked with their best qualities. "Mrs. Consumer can be hoodwinked once by exaggerated claims, but she will not be a repeat buyer, and in the food field that is important. We should get away from high-sounding phrases and advertising in the abstract.

Dr. E.W. Crampton, chairman of nutrition at Macdonald College, Montreal, blamed technical language as a barrier to consumer understanding.

"A nutritionist is faced at the outset with the necessity of translating a scientific lingo into everyday terms before he can hope effectively to communicate nutrition information to the majority of the public," he said.

CHANGING TREND

Mrs. Dorothy Dew, associate editor of a national women's magazine, told the group that social-economic trends start at the modern supermarket.

The gap between the young housewife and the highly-paid executive's wife is closing, she said. "For the first time in our history mothers in our country have only to stretch out a hand to pick up a packet of the same food that has just been tossed into her basket by the boss' wife," she said.

Dainty gifts, assembled in a decorated diaper pail, were presented to the 22 guests present. "This—somewhat over-simplified—is what the food industry is doing today; gradually and in-creasedly closing the gap between the serving of refreshments by the hostesses."

Following the opening of the gifts a number of amusing games were played, followed by the serving of refreshments by the hostesses.

Dr. E.W. Crampton, chairman of nutrition at Macdonald College, Montreal, blamed technical language as a barrier to consumer understanding.

"A nutritionist is faced at the outset with the necessity of translating a scientific lingo into everyday terms before he can hope effectively to communicate nutrition information to the majority of the public," he said.

Confused Image Frustrates Nurse

WINNIPEG (CP)—Are nurses frustrated because of the illusion that they are Florence Nightingales, ministering angels and mother substitutes?

Montreal management consultant Clark Middleton - Hope says they are.

He told hospital administrators at a meeting here that the image nurses have of themselves eventually frustrates them and often ends when they quit or switch their type of work.

"Nurses are confused as to their role and function," he said. "This has serious implications. A wide discrepancy exists between what the nurse conceives her role to be and the demands made on her as a full-time nurse."

"With the shortage of nurses the problem has severe implications for many hospitals. The large number of patients under the care of such nurses increases the demands on her time and make it physically impossible for her to give the kind of intimate bedside care traditionally thought to be part of the professional nurse's role."

Mr. Middleton - Hope said that nurses can't get real satisfaction from their work because "frustration develops as the nurses simultaneously try to meet demands of the hospital and the demands imposed by her conception of her role."

"The strain is overwhelming," he said.

CAC Toy Testing Book Mooted As Breakfast Cereal Premium

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Association of Consumers annual meeting today touched on the touchy subject of distributing one of its sponsored reports through a breakfast cereal firm and reviewed consumer complaints collected by committees.

Mrs. A. L. Kassirer of Ottawa, chairman of the association's toy-testing committee, said in her report that 5,000 copies of this year's edition of What's What for Children, a parents' handbook, were printed for a cereal company which distributes them for 50 cents and two box tops from its product.

The handbook, which includes a toy-buying guide, is published by the citizens' committee on children. The toy testing committee itself is a joint CAC and citizens' committee group.

Mrs. Kassirer said the company distributes the handbook at the same cost as the committee—50 cents a copy. The committee also printed 10,000 copies of the handbook which it distributed itself.

"Distribution of the handbook is hard to handle since the committee has no office," Mrs. Kassirer said. The committee also lacked funds to publish results or buy toys for testing.

She said she believes the cereal company says he's willing to bet there will be fewer home runs hit there this year than there were at Ebbetts Field last season. Third game of the World Series is slated for tomorrow, commencing at 1 p.m. Kelowna time. Series is tied one apiece.—(AP Wirephoto.)

NORTH, MORO PLAYING

Calgarians Not Worried Over 1959-60 Prospect

CALGARY (CP)—"Don't hang out any crying towels for Calgary Stampeder," says coach Gus Kyle of the Western Hockey League club.

Kyle probably wouldn't be blamed if he shed a tear for the loss of two of last year's Prairie Division first team all-stars, centre Eddie Dorohoy and goalie Roy Edwards, but he is optimistic as ever.

"Sure it hurts, but that's hockey. Although we've lost quite a few players, Chicago Black Hawks have helped us and there have been some real surprises in training camp."

Stampeder, who have a work-in-progress agreement with the Hawks, wrapped up first place in the Prairie Division last year weeks before the schedule ended but lost out to Seattle Totems for the league championship.

Since then, Edwards has been called up by the Hawks and Dorohoy has been traded to Vancouver Canucks and Don Ward, second all-star team defenceman, has ended up with the National Hockey League Boston Bruins.

FORMER RANGER
A former New York Ranger defenceman and Calgary coach for three years, Kyle claims he has an adequate replacement for Dorohoy in Claude Provost, a Montreal Royals of the Quebec Hockey League.

In recent years Calgary has found better than average goaltending in Edwards and Al Rol-mann, who says Provost has shown enough so far in practice to indicate he can handle the job.

As his top defencemen Kyle is counting on Fred Hucul, also an all-star last year and Doug Barkley, who played with Buffalo last season. A couple of newcomers showing promise on the blue line are Bob Wilson from Quebec Aces and Wayne North from Kelowna Packers.

There's also a chance Rino Robazza, currently working out with Buffalo, will be cut and returned to the WHL squad.

LOST SCORING PUNCH
Up front Stampers lost considerable scoring punch when they lost Dorohoy to Vancouver and so far no replacement has been found to fill the gap between Rol-mann and Lou Jankowski. Ron Leopold and Lou Jankowski, who are either of two NHL veterans, Wally Hergesheimer or Norm Johnson, but Kyle has not made up his mind.

Centre Sid Finney, who potted 30 goals last year, will likely end up between Merv Kuryluk, picked up from Saskatoon Quakers, and Jackie McLeod, a winger obtained in the Dorohoy deal.

The third line probably will have Gordie Vejpava from the AHL Cleveland Barons flanked by Jimmy Brown from the University of Denver and Jim Moro from Vernon of the Okanagan League.

Kyle had no predictions on where his club would finish but he figures the team to beat is Vancouver.

"The whole league has improved this year, but I think we have kept pace, particularly on defence," he said.

In the annual summer draft, Rangers grabbed defenceman Ian Cushman from Montreal and centre Brian Cullen from Leafs. Bruins paid Detroit $20,000 for centre Charlie Burns.

Canadians might have only two lineup changes opening night. Bill Hicke, rookie scoring sensation with Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League last season, appears to have found a place on the team. Defenceman Jean-Claude Tremblay impressed coach Toe Blake when he filled in for Jean-Guy Talbot, who suffered a shoulder separation two weeks ago.

Meanwhile, Maurice Richard is ready for his 18th season. The 38-year-old Rocket says the ankle break which sidelined him last season is healed.

Little Man With Big Bat Charlie Neal Now LA Hero

By CHARLES MAHER Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Charlie Neal, a skinny little guy with arms no bigger than his bat, was standing quietly in the limelight occupied Thursday by a man nearly twice his size.

Neal, who looks as though he might need the wind behind him to drive the ball over the infield, had just belted two mighty home runs—the second of which made the difference in the Dodgers' 4-3 victory over Chicago.

"Man, this is different from the regular season," said Neal. "This is for the big money."

"I wasn't thinking when I hit that second one that it might win the game, but I was sure glad to see it go. I knew we'd need some runs against these guys."

"Yes, that was one of the biggest thrills of my career."

On the perimeter of the gang of reporters throwing questions at the 155-pound second baseman was coach Chuck Dressen, who has been giving Neal some batting tips this season.

HAD WEAKNESS
Dressen said Neal had a weakness, but Chuck wouldn't say what it was until a newsman suggested: "A fast ball, high and inside."

"Yeah," said Dressen. "I had him tape the end of his bat, so he couldn't get his hands down so far. Now he doesn't have such a long bat and he can hit those high inside pitches better."

Neal hit 19 homers during the regular season, including one in the playoffs, and drove in 83 runs, more than anyone else on the club except Duke Snider, who accounted for 88.

Left-hander Johnny Podres, who got the victory Friday although he was pulled for a pinch hitter in the seventh, had trouble getting started as usual. The Sox got to him for two runs in the opening inning.

"I don't know what it is about that first inning," Johnny said. "It's been a jinx for me all through my career."

"I was throwing good, but I was a little wilder than usual at the start."

TWO HITS
Podres gave up two hits in the first, one a double just inside first base by Luis Aparicio and the other a single off the end of Smer Lollar's bat.

"That ball Aparicio hit must have been close to a foot outside," Podres said.

In his last two world series games, in 1955, Podres beat the New York Yankees 8-3 and 2-0, picking up the second win in the decisive seventh game.

Nights, Times Set For Club

The badminton season in Kelowna officially gets under way Sunday.

Following a clean-up by members of the Kelowna Badminton Club Friday, a schedule of playing nights was established.

Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday have been set aside for club members. Times are 8 p.m. on week nights and 2 p.m. on Sundays.

There is free coaching for beginners.

Petty To Play In Final Game
Leo Petty, Kelowna's star shortstop, will be back in hotness Sunday for the final OMBL playoff game with the Kamloops Okanogs.

The heavy-hitting infielder will journey here from Spokane, where he is attending Gonzaga University.

The game, originally scheduled for 1:30 p.m. at Riverside Park will get under way at 12 noon, to allow players and fans an opportunity to view the world series game.

Senators Move? Might At That
WASHINGTON (AP)—Calvin Griffith, president of Washington Senators, told the Washington Post Friday night he still is open to a move to Minneapolis.

Griffith, interviewed by The Post in Chicago during the second game of the world series, said:

"We've always been open to offers which would improve our financial standing."

The Senators have until Oct. 31 to effect a franchise shift.

GAMBLER AND LOST

Tony's "Wishful Wave" Now A Baseball Legend

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Los Angeles Dodgers apparently have been pumped so full of reports of Chicago White Sox speed, they are filled up to here.

It started coming out Friday after the Dodgers squared the world series with a 4-3 victory. Pitcher Clem Labine shouted across the Dodger dressing room: "Go, go Sox! Hell, suddenly they are the slow Sox!"

The Dodgers were taking advantage of one man's slowness to taint the Sox battle cry. He was catcher Smer Lollar, out a mile at the plate in the eighth inning, when the Sox were attempting another trademark cliff-hanging comeback.

They got one run in the inning instead of a possible two or three, leaving them trailing 4-3.

WISHFUL WAVE
On Al Smith's double, Lollar went from first to second, hesitated slightly, then headed for third. There, Sox coach Tony Cuccinello gave his now famous wishful wave, sending the lumbering Lollar for home.

A perfect relay—Wally Moon to Maury Wills to John Roseboro—had Lollar out easily at the plate.

There was no quirming by Cuccinello, manager Al Lopez, veteran first lieutenant, although he was on the hotseat afterward.

"I thought Lollar could make it but once he went past me I knew he was going to be out," said Tony. "I gambled and lost."

Lollar shouldered some of the blame: "I hesitated at second because I thought Moon had a chance on the ball. Once the ball got by him, started up again and when Tony waved me in I thought I was going to make it easily."

TIMING OFF
Sox starter Bob Shaw, who fed two home run balls to Charley Neal and one to pinch-hitter Chuck Essegian, said his timing was off.

"Shaw just didn't have his usual stuff," said battery mate Lollar.

"Ho wasn't getting his pitches down." Essegian lofted his homer well over 400 feet into the upper deck of left center field—only the seventh pinch homer in world series history.

"The last time I saw Essegian hit a ball that far was at a driving range," cracked teammate Ron Fairly.

Tommy Kono Lift Champ
WARSAW (AP)—Tommy Kono of Honolulu Friday night raised 337 pounds in three lifts to win his third world middleweight weightlifting championship.

The 29-year-old Hawaiian succorfully defended his title against runnerup Tedor Bogdanowksi of Russia.

Habs Powerful As Ever Say Veteran Observers

By RON ANDREWS Canadian Press Staff Writer

Any National Hockey League team that hopes to kick the props from under the mighty Montreal Canadiens this season is likely to wind up with bruised toes.

Canadians won the league title last year, the Stanley Cup title last year, and with the 1959-60 season opening next week, there has been no indication that they might lose their winning touch.

From all accounts they're as powerful as ever.

Among the other five teams it's anyone's guess who will finish where. Most coaches are keeping mum, but Phil Watson of New York Rangers says his team is nosed out of one of the four playoff spots by Toronto Maple Leafs on the final night of last season's schedule, will make it this year.

IMLACH OPTIMISTIC
Punch Imlach of Leafs figures his team has a good chance to finish second.

"We were second-best last season and I see no reason why we shouldn't finish in second place this time," says Imlach. Leafs were fourth in 1958-59, defeated Boston Bruins in the Stanley Cup semi-finals and lost to Canadiens in the Cup final.

Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks open the 210 game schedule next Wednesday at Chicago. Thursday night Boston visits Montreal, Detroit and Toronto get their season under way Saturday.

The Red Wings playing at Montreal and Leafs entertaining Chicago.

There were only two off-season trades and Detroit figured in both. Wings who missed the playoffs last spring for the first time in 21 seasons, obtained right winger Barry Cullen from Toronto in exchange for left winger Johnny Wilson and traded veteran forward Nick Mickoski to Boston for defenceman Jim Morrison.

In the annual summer draft, Rangers grabbed defenceman Ian Cushman from Montreal and centre Brian Cullen from Leafs. Bruins paid Detroit $20,000 for centre Charlie Burns.

Canadians might have only two lineup changes opening night. Bill Hicke, rookie scoring sensation with Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League last season, appears to have found a place on the team. Speaking of Thursday's game Mrs. Power said:

Dodgers Can Relax Now Myrtle Is On The Way

BUFORD, Ga. (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers will have their Georgia good luck charm with them when they resume baseball warfare with Chicago in the world series at Los Angeles Sunday.

Mrs. Myrt Power of Buford, who was fame with her knowledge of baseball on a television quiz show four years ago, said Friday she's leaving for Los Angeles today.

Mrs. Power became the Dodgers' No. 1 female fan after confessing her undying love for the Burns.

The Brooklyn Dodgers are now the Los Angeles Dodgers but as Mrs. Power said: "A Dodger is a Dodger, no matter what town they're in. And don't you be calling them the Burns."

MULTIPLYING WELL Manitoba Sportsmen Try Turkeys

CANADA OUTDOORS By TOM WILLIAMS Canadian Press Staff Writer

PLUM COULEE, Man. (CP)—A group of sportsmen in this Southern Manitoba area is working on an experiment to introduce the wild turkey—reputed to be one of the finest game birds in existence—to the wildlife population of the province.

The organization, called Wild Gobbler Unlimited, was formed in the spring of 1958 with the support of local fish and game associations.

The following fall 10 birds, purchased from a hatchery in Mandan, N.D., were released. Another six were kept in captivity in the hope of producing a hatch.

"None of the birds kept in captivity survived," said Bob Reichert of Plum Coulee, the organization's secretary. "But happily, all 10 of the birds released in the fall came through the winter in the pink of condition."

WILY BIRDS
Mr. Reichert said the wild turkey, when it becomes established, initial experiment, the group released 39 more birds—27 hens and eight toms—early last month in the second phase of the program.

Of the 10 birds originally released, four have since died. But they also hatched six poults, bringing the total population to 51 birds.

The wild turkey looks like a streamlined version of its domestic cousin. Toms reach a weight of about 16 pounds and hens about 12.

A non-migratory bird, the turkey is a rugged individualist. Mr. Reichert said that the 10 birds that survived Manitoba's severe winter virtually ignored corn and feed left out for them by Gobbler Unlimited.

"These turkeys prefer to rustle their own food," he said. "And this factor, perhaps more than any other, is encouraging to the sponsors of the project."

is one of the most elusive game birds "and experts say it is almost impossible to over-shoot a turkey."

The Manitoba group got the idea of introducing the birds to Manitoba after hearing of a similar experiment in neighboring North Dakota. Several exploratory meetings were held and when interest was shown by wildlife organizations, Wild Gobbler Unlimited was formed.

The organization is financed by contributions from fish and game groups and individual sportsmen. In addition, it is receiving publicity and funds from the sale of automobile windshield stickers advertising this project.

"Of course, the experiment is far from being a complete success yet," said Mr. Reichert. "We realize that any number of factors not yet encountered could result in the failure."

"But we're encouraged by the fact that the first release came through the winter so well and feel that with proper support, the chances of success are good."

Tripuka Blasts Clair For Coaching Methods

EDMONTON (CP)—Frank Tripuka had no excuses Friday for his poor showing as quarterback of Ottawa Rough Riders, but he said head coach Frank Clair didn't help.

"He treated the players like a bunch of high school kids," said Tripuka, newly hired head coach of Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Tripuka arrived by air from Ottawa Friday night and tonight directs the winless Roughriders when they meet Edmonton Eskimos in a Western Interprovincial Football Union game here.

He was hired by telephone Thursday to replace Roughriders coach George Terlep, dismissed after nine straight losses.

Tripuka, who quarterbacked Saskatchewan for six seasons, before going to Ottawa in an off-trade, said he wasn't happy under Clair.

"NO SPIRIT"
"There was no spirit there," he told reporters on his arrival Friday. "You expect that the quarterback and the coach would be on close terms. There was none of that."

"I was there since June 6 and I bet I didn't have 10 words with the guy."

Tripuka was benched by Ottawa, last place team in the Big Four, after several unhappy showings. Canadian Russ Jackson took over from Tripuka as first string quarterback. Import Babe Parilli later replaced Tripuka as second-string man.

Tripuka's main trouble was on interceptions and, while he said he might have been hampered by

B.C. Tourist Council Will Fight U.S. Campaign To Keep Tourists

PENTICTON (CP) —The British Columbia Tourist Council rained persons in the U.S. that Friday drew up plans for a campaign to hold B.C.'s stake in the North American tourist market in 1960 in the face of strong competition.

The council decided at its annual meeting to set up a rescue operation committee and called on the provincial government to increase its tourist advertising budget, which last year amounted to $46,000.

Concern was expressed about the current See America First campaign in the United States and the likelihood it would result in a reduction in the number of U.S. visitors to B.C.

Ron Gadsby, conservation and recreation department official, said the campaign could be turned to Canada's favor by re-want the star rating system for accommodation, whether charges should be made for uses of campsites, the relation of liquor regulations and tourist trade and feasibility of a provincial reservation service.

Other resolutions called for government action in standardizing road signs, developing landing strips, assisting local special events and naming highways.

Also recommended were government studies of whether tourists Establishment of a Canadian government travel office in San Francisco to attract tourists from California was urged.

Recreation minister Westwood told the convention it should draw up a brief for presentation to the cabinet indicating ways in which the government could enter more extensively into the industry, worth $106,000,000 to the province last year.

"The most important issue facing my department is the continued growth of the tourist business," he said.

SQUATTER DELAYED
VANCOUVER (CP) —Community Chest campaign organizers say Vancouver's pole squatter, Danny Sailor, will take his post Tuesday after several delays in preparing the 100-foot pole on which he will sit to publicize the campaign. Delays have been caused by difficulties in sinking guy-wire anchors on the parking lot site.

FIRST AID TO THE AILING HOUSE

By ROGER C. WHITMAN

WHITENING BRICK
QUESTION: The brick on my house is turning white in a few places: mostly around the chimney and about three or four bricks under the kitchen and the bathroom windows. The house is about nine months old, dry wall construction; no dehumidifier in the basement. Is the fault with the brick or something else? What should I do?

ANSWER: This is due to what is called "efflorescence," the forcing out to the surface, by moisture, of salts within the brick. Because of the location of the condition in limited, specific areas, I suspect it is due to faulty flashing around the chimney and defective caulking around the windows. These should be checked and repaired. In time, white will disappear. It can be hastened by scrubbing with one part muriatic acid in 10 parts of water. Use care; don't let acid touch skin; wear old clothes; mix acid in wooden vessel, not metal.

ADHESIVE, FOAM RUBBER
QUESTION: What is the proper way to join two pieces of foam rubber together?

ANSWER: The two pieces of foam rubber can be joined together with rubber cement, available in tubes in most variety, hardware and housewares stores. Be sure surfaces being brought together are grease-free and grime-free.

SILVERFISH
QUESTION: Beginning to have silverfish. How can I get rid of them?

ANSWER: Silverfish feed mainly on starch, and attack starched fabrics, wallpaper, bookbindings, etc. An effective remedy is pyrethrum powder; dust this with a powder puff behind books on shelves in woodwork, wherever the insects are seen. DDT or lindane powder is also effective.

ATTIC BATS
QUESTION: How can we rid our attic of bats? Our home is a large three-story house with high ceiling in the attic. Impossible to see the bats because they apparently live in the highest parts.

ANSWER: Bats can enter through very small crevices, as well as open windows. To keep them out of an attic, all such crevices should be found and closed. To drive the bats out, leave attic windows partly open at top, and burn sulphur candle in attic (be very careful of fire hazard) and scatter large quantities of moth flakes in attic.

REMOVING WALL COVERING
QUESTION: Nearly nine years ago I installed a linoleum-like covering on my kitchen walls. The material was purchased at a large mail-order house, the paste used had their label on it. Now I want to remove this and replace with plastic tile. How can I soften the paste, or must I pull off the wall covering and scrape the walls?

ANSWER: Suggest writing to the mail-order house to find out whether this is a waterproof, or water soluble paste; they will be glad to furnish advice as the best way to remove covering and loosen adhesive. If you want to experiment, pry up one corner of the covering with a putty knife and pull enough away to see if paste is watersoluble. If so, continue pulling and soaking until covering is stripped off. Remaining mastic can be worked off with water and a putty knife.

RUSTED WIRE FENCE
QUESTION: Several years ago I erected a galvanized wire mesh fence. It's still strong, but rusted throughout its length. Is there anything I could use to cover it that would hold without the rust coming through? Is it necessary to remove the rust first, which will be practically an impossible job?

ANSWER: Scrape off all loose and scaling rust, using a stiff wire brush. Then brush on a one-step, rust-inhibiting paint primer having a fish oil base. This is widely available in paint and hardware stores. Follow the manufacturer's instructions carefully. Much quicker than old method which first requires all rust to be removed down to the bare metal.

PAINTING WITH ROLLER
QUESTION: We've been told that it's easier for an amateur do-it-yourselfer to use a roller, rather than a brush, for painting walls. We are going to test this soon. Is any preparation of the roller necessary?

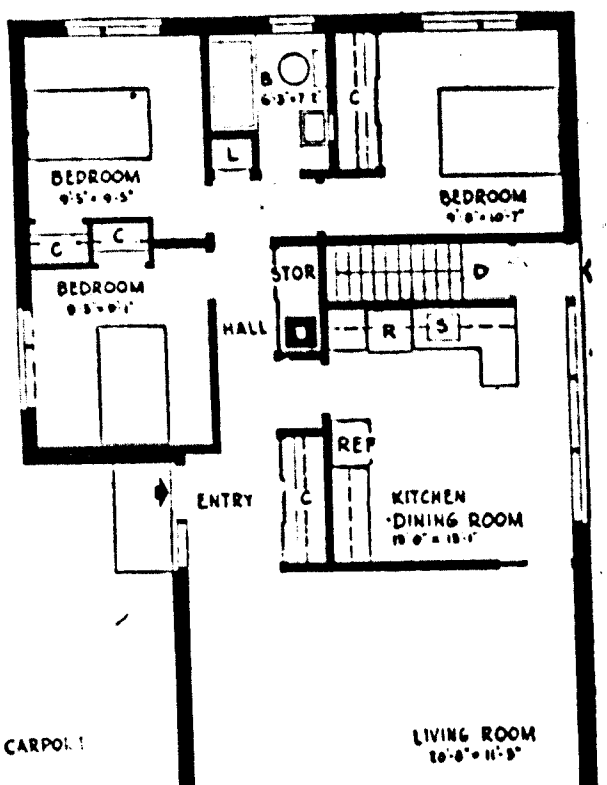

ANSWER: The cover of a new roller should be washed with warm water and soap, then thoroughly rinsed in clear water. If an oil base paint is to be applied, dry the roller completely; if a water-mixed paint is to be used, wet the roller with water before immersing in paint. After use, the roller should be cleaned in the solvent recommended by the manufacturer for the particular paint used; shake the solvent through the coater, then roll on newspaper to remove all excess.

This brick veneer three-bedroom bungalow has been designed by architect R. Whiteley, of Don Mills, to ensure internal circulation. The floor plan is so arranged that any part of the house may be reached without crossing the living room.

The large kitchen, which can be used for dining, is conveniently located in relation to both the main and secondary entrances. Ample cupboard, closet and storage space is another attractive feature of the plan. The front door is protected by a roof overhang, which is extended to form a carport. For best orientation the front door should face north.

The total floor area is 1,085 square feet and the exterior dimensions are 30 feet, two inches, by 40 feet, 10 inches. Working drawings for the house, known as Design 292, may be obtained from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

Reporter Tells Of Test Dive In Nuclear Sub

ABOARD SKIPJACK (AP)—and where maximum range on the sonar (listening) machine can be obtained. The Skipjack can stop, float motionless in the depths to listen and locate and target, then streak forward at top power almost instantly.

At far faster speed than the 23 miles an hour which military security permits to be used for publication, the nuclear submarine Skipjack dove sharply down, surging powerfully into the deep water south of the tip of Long Island. The depth indicator spun off the figures—the rate of descent ran close to 20 feet a second.

The nuclear power shoved her deeper and deeper, down to the 400-foot mark and still farther down. The helmsman pulled his wheel over, needing only a light touch of the hand. Like an airplane, the Skipjack banked tightly. Crew and passengers hung on to the angle of bank built up to almost 40 degrees.

MUCH FASTER

Cmdr. William W. Behrens, skipper of the Skipjack, says his ship will turn tighter and far faster than the conventional submarines of the Second World War.

All of this—the high speed, the fish-like darting, the deep diving capability—is vital to the main mission of the Skipjack. She is an anti-submarine submarine, designed, built, equipped and armed to hunt and kill other submarines. The Skipjack, the fastest submarine in the U.S. Navy and perhaps in the world, was demonstrated Wednesday for the first time to reporters.

Why is such a submarine the best weapon for hunting other submarines? Behrens lists them: She can remain for long, virtually unlimited periods, at the best depth for listening for enemy submarines

SIX TORPEDO TUBES

The Skipjack is fitted with six torpedo tubes. She can carry a supply of torpedoes bigger than the 20-torpedo stock for standard submarines.

A variety of types may be used, depending on the mission. Behrens notes that "for an anti-submarine mission, he would carry a goodly number of homing torpedoes." This means the small but lethal target-seeking electric torpedoes, about half the size of the 21-foot standard size.

The 250-foot-long submarine displaced 3,500 tons when submerged, said five such births had been reported in the world in the last five years. Names of the parents were withheld.

Opening lead—seven of hearts. The law of self-preservation applies in bridge as well as in life. When declarer is offered a choice of plays—one of which guarantees the contract, while the other endangers it—he will naturally choose the course that preserves him from harm.

While the general philosophy is self-evident, the application of it to a particular hand is frequently a matter of good judgment. For instance, take this deal.

A heart is led. The proper play from dummy is the queen, not the three. This play virtually guarantees that the contract will be made. Let's see why. The queen will not, not, depending upon which defender has the ace. Assume first that West has the ace. Declarer leads the jack of clubs at trick two, finesse, and is assured of nine tricks whether the finesses win or not.

This is because a winning finesse brings South ten sure tricks, while a losing finesse assures him of nine. If West is the player with the king of clubs, he can win the jack, but, being on lead, he cannot successfully attack South's king of hearts. Any other suit he shifts to allows South to run with nine top tricks.

Now let's assume East has the ace of hearts. He wins the queen and presumably returns heart. Declarer stays off. East leads another heart and South is forced to take it. At this point there are two established hearts outstanding.

Declarer now shapes his play so as to avoid West, the dangerous opponent. No thought is given to the club finesse. This would be a suicidal venture. Instead, South attacks diamonds.

He finessed against the queen. If it loses, he is in no danger. Either East has no more hearts, in which case South has nine running tricks, or East has a heart which he can return, and again South has nine tricks, because the production of a heart by East means that the suit was originally divided 4-4.

The suit declarer chooses to establish turns out, peculiarly enough, to depend on which opponent has the ace of hearts.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By ESTRELLITA

FOR TOMORROW

You may encounter some opposition to plans in the A.M., but don't force issues. Maintain a spirit of graciousness and all paths will be smoothed. Look for a bit of good news late in the day—something in the nature of a surprise.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, the stars indicate that you are currently in a cycle where matters connected with business should be taking a definite upward trend. Original ideas, coupled with progressive methods in carrying them out, could yield fine results. Financial matters are also under excellent aspects now and will continue to be for the next three months—provided that you do not yield to extravagant impulses or speculate unwisely. In this connection, Libra's innate sense of balance and good judgement (Next good monetary period: mid-1960.)

Travel and romance will be under generous influences in December; also from next May until August, and domestic relationships should be harmonious for most of the year ahead. You may have to work hard to achieve a personal objective in April, but the results will be well worthwhile.

A child born on this day will be musically talented, ambitious and endowed with an extremely magnetic personality.

THE DAY AFTER TOMORROW

You may have a tendency to try and accomplish more than is reasonable on Monday. Don't! Plan a realistic program, maintain a steady pace and you will wind up the day on a satisfactory note. Scattering your energies will only invite fatigue.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If Monday is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that a display of initiative and enterprise within the next three months could yield excellent results—especially where financial matters are concerned. Another good period along these lines will occur in the middle of 1960. In job affairs, you may be obliged to take on some new responsibilities during the same periods, but, well handled, they could prove a real stepping stone to a better future.

Those in creative fields should find the first six months of the new year a highly inspiring period, and all should find happiness, where travel and romance are concerned, in December; also between May and August. Social activities should prove extremely lively during the same periods.

A child born on this day will be enthusiastic, energetic and highly progressive in his methods.

Unusual Sunny Weather Doing Strange Things To Englishmen

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Britain's best summer and fall weather in 200 years has started a revolution in the outlook of the Englishman.

For one thing, he's noticing women—a phenomenon in this land.

Not only that, he likes what he sees.

During those golden days you can hear the shriek of a man from John O'Grants to Land's End.

The brilliant days and nights did it.

Britain had grown accustomed to decades of soggy summers when it either rained every day or threatened to.

Men forgot what the female figure looked like in daylight. Years of wet weather had kept the British female shrouded in rain-coats, or hidden beneath umbrellas.

On the rare occasions when the sun did shine, it was so chilly that the girls seldom went outside their drafty homes in anything less than bulky tweeds.

But all that went with this year's unbroken string of lush days and soft, starry nights.

The girls came out in chic hair styles, colorful cotton dresses with billowing skirts and the hemline hovering at the knees.

It caught the men off stride.

Back last May when the perfect weather began, they shook their heads and muttered:

"We'll pay for this. June will be horrible."

When June turned out to be better than May, they grumbled:

"Just wait till July. We'll be flooded."

But as July proved better than June, a young man was heard whistling at a shapely girl toddling down Piccadilly in a thin cotton dress.

The revolution had come.

So many wolves appeared in Trafalgar Square one sapphire-like evening in August that it sounded like a hungry night on the Siberian Steppes.

It was too much.

A man wrote a letter to The Times, expressing surprise in the transformation in our womanhood, both young and not so young.

Another man joined the correspondence and said:

"Never in history have the woman of this country turned out in such elegantly cut clothes."

Still another penned the same thoughts and with the good sense and logic of the British male asked:

"Is it the sun?"

Brother, it was and it is.
